Cheques and other similar payment instruments which are received by the Bank for collection on behalf of the account holder are available as cash only when paid by the issuer. The Bank may allow the account holder to draw against these uncleared instruments, but this will not give rise to any claim against the Bank. The Bank, at its discretion, is entitled to debit the account holders account with the amount of any unpaid or dishonoured instruments. The Bank cannot accept responsibility for ensuring that depositors or account holders have lawful title to instruments received for collection and whilst making every effort to ensure safekeeping, the Bank cannot be held responsible for instruments lost, stolen or destroyed while in any stage of collection. The Bank expects information furnished by or on behalf of the account holder to be correct and has no duty or responsibility to check such information.
